

Who you are isn't necessarily how you look or what you are forced to do day-to-day; it is a combination of the things you love and the objects which lead you places. Baseball has lead me many places in life. (Andrew Rodgers)